

Ethical Dilemmas

7 Common Ethical Dilemmas

1. Conflict of interest: Examples include interviewing friends; only interviewing one grade or those with a specific point of view; covering clubs and teams that you are a member of, "getting even" with those who might have wronged you
2. Plagiarism: Claiming others' work as one's own, essentially stealing from them. Students must credit other people's materials and ideas. This includes "borrowing" or downloading visuals from the Internet to use without permission with stories.
3. Anonymous/unnamed sources: Although reporters sometimes use anonymous sources, most news organizations have strict guidelines about when to use them. A reporter has to determine the information's value and whether it is possible to get it any other way.
 - WHEN DO YOU THINK IT IS OK TO ALLOW A SOURCE TO REMAIN ANONYMOUS?
